U. S., BRITAIN SEEK SOLUTION TO SPAIN CASE

Both Countries Fail To Find Enough Reasons For Quarantine

IRAN BACK IN SPOTLIGHT

UN Council To Hear Report From Committee; Easter Vacation Sought

NEW YORK, April 18—The United States and Great Britain failed today to find any compelling reasons in the Polish case against Spain to support a United Nations diplomatic "quarantine" of the Franco regime.

But both would like to avoid a flat rejection of Polish demands for action against the Spanish dictator and hope to find the basis for a compromise when debate on Spain is resumed in the security council late today.

What is sought is a mid-way resolution between Poland's demand for intervention in Spain and a do-nothing policy.

British View Due

The council scheduled two more hours of discussion of Franco Spain between 3 and 5 p. m. EST. British Delegate Sir Alexander Cadogan will start, representing those opposed to action. Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko probably will speak before the session closes and present additional charges against Franco.

At 5 p. m., present plans are to turn back to the almost eternal Iranian problem, with many of the delegations hoping for a vote to-night which will allow them to recess for a long Easter week-end. Debate on Spain would be resumed next week.

Experts to Report

The Iranian case was referred Tuesday to a committee of experts after Secretary General Trygve Lie submitted a surprise and unsolicited opinion that the council might be acting illegally, or at least unwisely, if it rejected Russia's demand for dropping the Iranian case immediately.

After two days of study of Lie's opinion, the committee of experts—composed of the same nations as the council—were reported to have made no progress to the solution. Just as the council is divided so are the experts.

Eight For Retention

Eight nations led by Britain and America insist that the Iranian case be kept under the council's jurisdiction until May 6—the day by which Russia has promised to get its troops out of Iran. Three nations, the Soviet Union, France and Poland, think the case should be dropped now since Russia and Iran have asked the council to do so.

Cadogan was expected to take a line comparable to that stated by U. S. Delegate Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., on Spain. His aides said he probably would not "on the first round" reject the Russian resolution as bluntly as Dutch Delegate Eelco N. van Kleffens.

But Cadogan is prepared to "analyze" the Polish evidence against Spain and to conclude that the Poles have presented little new information and that much more is needed if council action is to be taken.

France, one of Poland's strongest supporters, failed to mention the massing of Spanish troops along the Spanish-French frontier—a fact which Polish Ambassador Oscar Lange said threatened French security. The British are expected to make much of this omission.

'Greatest' Crime Wave Sweeping United States

CHICAGO, April 18—The war has left in its wake the greatest crime waves in at least 15 years—perhaps the greatest in the nation's history, a nationwide survey showed today.

Police compared the crime wave to that which followed World War I. Sociologists attributed it to unemployment, reconversion layoffs and "war-broken" homes rather than thrill-bent returning service men.

The survey showed that the biggest increases were in robberies, automobile thefts and burglaries. Homicides and sex crimes also increased sharply.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation said the upswing was the greatest since 1929, when the bureau began tabulating nationwide crime statistics. Reports from 2,000 cities with a total of 65,000,000 inhabitants showed these increases for last year:

Robberies, 23.6 per cent; auto thefts, 18.7; burglaries, 17; negligence manslaughter, 16.2; murders, 10.1; aggravated assaults, 8.7; larcenies, 8.6; rape, 5.7.

In several midwest cities sex crimes and homicides, including an unusually large number of multiple and mutilation murders, increased markedly. Detroit reported 43 homicides last week, Chicago 7 and New York City 5.

Indiana has had two double slayings, two mutilation slayings and at least four other slayings in the past six months. Chicago has had numerous homicides, including the unsolved mutilation slaying of six-year-old Suzanne Degnan last Jan. 7.

Dr. Harry Hoffman, Chicago psychiatrist, said the "chaotic home situation" of the past few years was the greatest contributing factor in the crime wave.

The Chicago crime commission said social and economic maladjustments, disrupted homes, and local conditions which breed delinquency—the same things which caused the crime problem after the last war—are present today.

"In all this," the commission said, "there is no indication that servicemen have gone criminal to any great extent."

GREAT BRITAIN IN PROTEST OF LINE TO ITALY

WASHINGTON, April 18—Britain is protesting "lustily" because Transcontinental and Western Air and Italian interests have contracted to operate an airline in Italy, a state department source said today.

He intimated there was some question just when the airline will begin operations because Britain seems to have "scared" the Italians with her protests.

Britain's objection is that there is no place in the operation for British Overseas Airways Corp., which presumably forgoes a time when the Italian line will be funneling traffic to TWA's international routes, but not to BOAC's.

Members of the Methodist Youth Fellowship will serve as ushers. The Pickaway County Ministerial Association urges everyone to attend the Good Friday union services, at least in part if not in its entirety.

In co-operation with the general services Circleville's retail stores will remain closed from 1 to 3 p. m. in order to enable the merchants and employees to attend

League In Last Session At Geneva

GENEVA, April 18—The flags of tribute fluttered in the warm spring sunshine along the quai Wilson today for the last time as the League of Nations met to vote its own end.

The final agenda contained only a few items beside the resolution for dissolution but each of the 36 delegates was expected to say a few words of farewell for the organization on which the world's hopes for peace after World War I were futilely founded.

In the great assembly hall of the palace of nations the delegates assembled for the last time to approve this resolution:

"Considering the charter of the United Nations has created for purposes of the same nature as those for which the league was established an international organization known as the United Nations to which all states may be admitted as members . . . and desiring to promote so far as it lies in its power the continuation, development and success of international cooperation . . . resolved from the day following the close of the present session the assembly of the league shall cease to exist except for the sole purpose of the liquidation of its affairs."

There was no real atmosphere of mourning at the final session, not even on the part of 81-year-old viscount Cecil of Britain, founder of the league, nor the veteran Henri Paul Boncour of France. They appeared to look forward to the United Nations as the successor of the league and to hope that the new international organization might succeed where the league failed.

Nazi Overlord Of Poland Admits Butchery But No War Crimes

NUERNBERG, April 18—Bald Hans Frank, Nazi overlord of Poland, tossed off a pious confession of feeling "a terrible guilt within me" today and then got down to the business of asserting that he was guilty of hardly any war crimes at all.

Frank, former governor general of Poland, testified in his own behalf before the war crimes court. Like the other defendants before him, he made an ostentatious gesture of shouldering the blame for his acts as a Nazi slavemaster, only to wheel about when the chips were down and shunt the responsibility to other Nazis.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, April 18—President Truman today asked former President Herbert Hoover to interrupt his world-wide famine inspection trip and return immediately to report his "eye witness account of the necessity for greater assistance from this country" to starving nations.

The combined food board, representing the United States, Britain and Canada, today was inching toward a solution to the momentous problem of how to divide its precious grain reserves among the hungry peoples of the world.

U. S. government officials were encouraged by Britain's offer to make 200,000 tons of cereals available at once for world relief purposes if the United States and Canada would guarantee that they would be replaced later.

The British offer was made at a four-hour meeting of the board late yesterday, shortly after President Truman's famine emergency committee disclosed it had recommended a seven-point program for channeling more American food overseas.

Mr. Truman himself announced he would make a brief world-wide radio address on the food situation at 7:15 p. m. EST tomorrow. He said former President Herbert Hoover would speak from Europe on the same program.

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson said Mr. Hoover would be asked to return to this country as soon as he reaches Cairo on Saturday to paint the real famine picture. He then will resume his tour of world hunger areas.

High point of the FEC's program was a proposal to raise corn ceiling prices temporarily in an effort to lure more corn out of farm cribs. The committee also recommended a flour restriction order and flour set-aside to make sure this country meets its commitments abroad.

Coal Strike Extension Worries CPA Officials

WASHINGTON, April 18—Reconversion officials expressed growing alarm over the coal strike today and predicted that steel production losses would exceed 4,000,000 tons if the stoppage runs into May.

Reports from the labor department encouraged no optimism over prospects for settling the strike before then. There was little hope that the mine operators and President John L. Lewis of the striking United Mine Workers (AFL) would be brought back to the bargaining table this week.

"The nation's reconversion program is suffering a setback which will steadily grow worse day by day if the coal strike continues," said Director J. D. Small of the civilian production administration.

A CPA report estimated that the steel industry would be forced to operate at only 50 per cent of capacity next month, compared with 77.4 this week, if the strike was not settled until "early May." It said the industry might lose 3,500,000 tons of steel in May at that operating rate.

CPA estimated that the industry would lose 750,000 tons this month if production remained at its present level. But it expressed doubt that the current level would be maintained.

"Scores of plants are down because of lack of fuel," the report said. "Scores more are going down because of a lack of parts, which in turn is a result of other plants going down because of a lack of steel. The steel shortage reflects a slowdown at the steel mills caused by a scarcity of fuel."

A prolonged strike would cut into the production of consumer goods and building materials and into the maintenance of essential railroad and utility services, CPA (Continued on Page Two)

PRESIDENT SEES FORCES MERGER

Truman Reported Confident Controversy Will Be Settled Eventually

WASHINGTON, April 18—President Truman was confident today that the controversy over unification of the armed services will eventually be settled "satisfactorily."

His confidence was revealed by a White House official after the Navy had promised to confine its future merger opposition to "testimony instead of assertions."

Mr. Truman had a long session on unification yesterday afternoon with Secretary of Navy James V. Forrestal, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, chief of naval operations, and John L. Sullivan, assistant secretary of Navy.

White House Press Secretary Charles Ross said later that the President felt that he had "a very

ANGRY SOLONS TO KNOCK OUT PRICE CONTROLS

Representatives Ready To Hand President Worst Legislative Defeat

BOWLES PROTECTS ACTION

Coalition Steamrollers Over Supporters Of OPA; Senate Watched

WASHINGTON, April 18—A rebellious house today passed and sent to the senate an amendment-riddled price control bill despite warnings by economic stabilizer Chester Bowles that it would start the nation on an inflationary "joy ride to disaster."

It was one of the worst legislative defeats suffered by President Truman, who had requested a one-year extension of price control without crippling amendments.

The measure would extend the price control act only until next March 31. It carries a series of amendments which administration supporters said would "wreck" price control.

The amendments provide for elimination of meat subsidies on June 30, with a corresponding rise in prices; termination of all price roll-back subsidies on farm products next December 31; and a guarantee of cost-plus-a-reasonable profit to producers, distributors and retailers on all items.

Economic stabilizer Chester Bowles, in a last minute radio appeal for defeat of this "frightening threat," estimated that elimination of subsidies would add $70 a year to the food bill of the average family. He agreed with price chief Paul Porter, who called the measure "repeal of price control."

Many Amendments But even as Bowles was speaking, the house, in a turbulent session that lasted until almost 10 o'clock last night, plastered the bill with amendments against which administration forces were helpless.

An immediate vote on passage was delayed only by a parliamentary maneuver by Rep. Michael J. Bradley, D. Pa.—a request for a reading of an engrossed copy, which wasn't ready then.

The delay was intended to give the administration a chance to muster enough strength to send the bill back to the banking committee and to start over again with its original measure. The task appeared doomed from the start, however, and the administration looked to the senate to soften the blows dealt by the house.

Not So Drastic

Sen. Homer E. Capehart, R., Ind., a bitter critic of OPA's "unrealistic and production-choking policies," said he didn't think the senate would be "quite so drastic." He is a member of the senate banking committee, now holding hearings on a bill to extend the price control act a full year.

SUPERSENIORITY IS GUARANTEED OHIO VETERANS

COLUMBUS, April 18—State selective service headquarters today informed local board members that a recent court decision guaranteed Ohio veterans "superseniorty" in their claims to their old jobs.

The decision was handed down by the sixth U. S. circuit court of appeals in the case of Trainor v. Co. vs. Lawrence Whirls. The memorandum said it was believed any federal district court would follow the circuit court's decision.

The Trainor decision voided collective bargaining agreements between companies and unions that "have attempted to deprive the veteran of a job priority," the memorandum said.

Previous decisions by lower courts had held that a veteran's claim to his old job did not extend to the point of forcing demotion or dismissal of a non-veteran who might have greater seniority.

Three Hour Good Friday Service To Be Held At Methodist Church

Good Friday union services will be held Friday in the First Methodist church under the sponsorship of the Pickaway County Ministerial Association.

The special service, entitled "The Crucifixion," will begin at 12 noon and will end at 3 p. m., and will be divided into seven periods, with the participants including eight pastors, three organists, and three soloists.

Members of the Methodist Youth Fellowship will serve as ushers. The Pickaway County Ministerial Association urges everyone to attend the Good Friday union services, at least in part if not in its entirety.

In co-operation with the general services Circleville's retail stores will remain closed from 1 to 3 p. m. in order to enable the merchants and employees to attend the services. Banks will close at noon.

The program: First period, 12 noon to 12:25 p. m.; prelude, by Miss Abbe Mills Clarke; scripture, "The Crucifixion Psalm"; prayer, the Rev. Clarence Swearingen; meditation, "The Place," the Rev. Roy E. Wolford.

Second period, 12:25 to 12:50 p. m.; prayer, the Rev. Carl L. Wilson; solo, "Art Thou the Christ?," Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh; meditation, "The Crime of the Priests," the Rev. B. F. Borcoman.

Third period, 12:50 to 1:15 p. m.; hymn, "In the Cross of Christ I Glory"; prayer, the Rev. Roy E. Wolford; meditation, "The Blunder of the Civil Authorities," the Rev. Carl L. Kennedy.

Fourth period, 1:15 to 1:40 p. m.; prayer, the Rev. Carl L. Kennedy; solo, "On the Cross," Mrs. Andrew Goeller; meditation, "The Crucified One; Son of Man," the Rev. Alonzo Hill.

Fifth period, 1:40 to 2:05 p. m.; hymn, "O Sacred Head Now Wounded"; prayer, the Rev. Alonzo Hill; meditation, "The Crucified One; Son of God," the Rev. Lester E. Pike.

Sixth period, 2:05 to 2:30 p. m.; prayer, the Rev. B. F. Borcoman; solo, "Peace I Leave With You," Mrs. Clark Will; meditation, "The Crucified One; King," the Rev. L. C. Sherburne.

'Greatest' Crime Wave Sweeping United States

CHICAGO, April 18—The war has left in its wake the greatest crime waves in at least 15 years—perhaps the greatest in the nation's history, a nationwide survey showed today.

Police compared the crime wave to that which followed World War I. Sociologists attributed it to unemployment, reconversion lawfests and "war-broken" homes rather than thrill-bent returning service men.

The survey showed that the biggest increases were in robberies, automobile thefts and burglaries. Homicides and sex crimes also increased sharply.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation said the upswing was the greatest since 1920, when the bureau began tabulating nationwide crime statistics. Reports from 2,000 cities with a total of 65,000,000 inhabitants showed these increases for last year:

Robberies, 23.6 per cent; auto thefts, 18.7; burglaries, 17; negligence manslaughter, 16.2; murders, 10.1; aggravated assaults, 8.7; larcenies, 8.6; rape, 5.7.

In several midwest cities sex crimes and homicides, including an unusually large number of multiple and mutilation murders, increased markedly. Detroit reported 43 homicides last week, Chicago 7 and New York City 5.

Indiana has had two double slayings, two mutilation slayings and at least four other slayings in the past six months. Chicago has had numerous homicides, including the unsolved mutilation slaying of six-year-old Suzanne Degnan last Jan. 7.

Dr. Harry Hoffman, Chicago psychiatrist, said the "chaotic home situation" of the past few years was the greatest contributing factor in the crime wave.

The Chicago crime commission said social and economic maladjustments, disrupted homes, and local conditions which breed delinquency—the same things which caused the crime problem after the last war—are present today.

"In all this," the commission said, "there is no indication that servicemen have gone criminal to any great extent."

AID RUSHED TO CHIANG FORCES

Gen. Marshall Arrives In Chungking To Try To Stop Fighting

CHUNGKING, April 18—Government military sources said today that a nationalist relief column was driving toward Communist-encircled Changchun at a 14-mile daily clip and indicated spearheads might now be within 30 miles of the Manchurian capital.

This report came as U. S. envoy Gen. George C. Marshall arrived in Chungking in an attempt to halt bitter civil fighting in Manchuria.

The military sources said the American-equipped Chinese 1st army was advancing rapidly to the northeast after capturing Szepeikang, which is 70 miles from Changchun.

They said the 1st army is not mechanized and has only light artillery, while Communist forces in Manchuria number 300,000 troops, some of them well-armed with Japanese equipment and occasionally capable of displaying heavy firepower.

Meanwhile, Nationalist defenders of Changchun were reported driven into a small pocket in the center of the city by overwhelming Communist forces.

Marshall, who sped back from Washington in an effort to halt the civil war which flared up in his absence, was met at the airport at 2:40 p. m. by leaders of the two contending parties, in-

NO ONE INJURED AS AUTO, TRUCK UPSET ON ROAD

Occupants of a car and truck escaped injury Thursday afternoon when both vehicles overturned on Route 23 about three miles south of Circleville.

Highway Patrolman L. G. Ridgeway reported the accident resulted when an automobile, driven by Mrs. Flora Imbell, 62, Chillicothe, cut in front of a truck, operated by Luther Townes, Virginia, after passing the truck. Furniture loaded on the truck was scattered over a field.

TRUMAN REPORTED CONFIDENT

Controversy Will Be Settled Eventually

WASHINGTON, April 18—President Truman was confident today that the controversy over unification of the armed services will eventually be settled "satisfactorily."

His confidence was revealed by a White House official after the Navy had promised to confine its future merger opposition to "testimonial instead of assertions."

Mr. Truman had a long session on unification yesterday afternoon with Secretary of Navy James V. Forrestal, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, chief of naval operations, and John L. Sullivan, assistant secretary of Navy.

White House Press Secretary Charles Ross said later that the President felt that he had "a very

Coal Strike Extension Worries CPA Officials

WASHINGTON, April 18—Reconversion officials expressed growing alarm over the coal strike today and predicted that steel production losses would exceed 4,000,000 tons if the stoppage runs into May.

Reports from the labor department encouraged no optimism over prospects for settling the strike before then. There was little hope that the mine operators and President John L. Lewis of the striking United Mine Workers (AFL) would be brought back to the bargaining table this week.

"The nation's reconversion program is suffering a setback which will steadily grow worse day by day if the coal strike continues," said Director J. D. Small of the civilian production administration.

A CPA report estimated that the steel industry would be forced to operate at only 50 per cent of capacity next month, compared with 77.4 this week, if the strike was not settled until "early May." It said the industry might lose 3,500,000 tons of steel in May at that operating rate.

CPA estimated that the industry would lose 750,000 tons this month if production remained at its present level. But it expressed doubt that the current level would be maintained.

"Scores of plants are down because of lack of fuel," the report said. "Scores more are going down because of a lack of parts, which in turn is a result of other plants going down because of a lack of steel. The steel shortage reflects a slowdown at the steel mills caused by a scarcity of fuel."

A prolonged strike would cut into the production of consumer goods and building materials and into the maintenance of essential railroad and utility services, CPA (Continued on Page Two)

NOT SO DRASTIC

Sen. Homer E. Capehart, R., Ind., a bitter critic of OPA's "unrealistic and production-choking policies," said he did not think the senate would be "quite so drastic." He is a member of the senate banking committee, now holding hearings on a bill to extend the price control act a full year.

Here's what happened as the bi-partisan house coalition, aroused

SUPERSENIORITY IS GUARANTEED OHIO VETERANS

COLUMBUS, April 18—State selective service headquarters today informed local board members that a recent court decision guaranteed Ohio veterans "superseniorty" in their claims to their old jobs.

The decision was handed down by the sixth U. S. circuit court of appeals in the case of Trailmobile Co. vs. Lawrence Whirls. The memorandum said it was believed any federal district court would follow the circuit court's decision.

The Trailmobile decision voided collective bargaining agreements between companies and unions that "have attempted to deprive the veteran of a job priority," the memorandum said.

Previous decisions by lower courts had held that a veteran's claim to his old job did not extend to the point of forcing demotion or dismissal of a non-veteran who might have greater seniority.

BOWLES PROTECTS ACTION

Coalition Steamrollers Over Supporters Of OPA; Senate Watched

WASHINGTON, April 18—A rebellious house today passed and sent to the senate an amendment-riddled price control bill despite warnings by economic stabilizer Chester Bowles that it would start the nation on an inflationary "joy ride to disaster."

It was one of the worst legislative defeats suffered by President Truman, who had requested a one-year extension of price control without crippling amendments.

The measure would extend the price control act only until next March 31. It carries a series of amendments which administration supporters said would "wreck" price control.

The amendments provide for elimination of meat subsidies on June 30, with a corresponding rise in prices; termination of all price roll-back subsidies on farm products next December 31; and a guarantee of cost-plus-a-reasonable-profit to producers, distributors and retailers on all items.

Economic stabilizer Chester Bowles, in a last minute radio appeal for defeat of this "frightening threat," estimated that elimination of subsidies would add $70 a year to the food bill of the average family. He agreed with price chief Paul Porter, who called the measure "repeal of price control."

Many Amendments

But even as Bowles was speaking, the house, in a turbulent session that lasted until almost 10 o'clock last night, plastered the bill with amendments against which administration forces were helpless.

An immediate vote on passage was delayed only by a parliamentary maneuver by Rep. Michael J. Bradley, D. Pa., a request for a reading of an engrossed copy, which wasn't ready then.

The delay was intended to give the administration a chance to muster enough strength to send the bill back to the banking committee and to start over again with its original measure. The task appeared doomed from the start, however, and the administration looked to the senate to soften the blows dealt by the house.

Meat Subsidies Doomed
2. It agreed by roll-call vote, 245-150, to terminate all price roll-back subsidies on farm products Dec. 31 through a gradual reduction program, and by roll-call vote of 214-182 to terminate meat subsidies June 30 when the present act expires. (Porter estimated that elimination of meat subsidies would add more than $1,000,000,000 to the nation's food bill.)

3. It decided by roll-call vote of 259-137 to guarantee cost-plus-reasonable-profit on all items manufactured, grown, or produced, regardless of historical costs that industry and trade may have taken in the past on some items in order to sell major items.

Other amendments were adopted too, but these were the most controversial and, to the administration, the most damaging.

Murder Charged
"You have murdered the OPA," shouted Rep. Adolph Sabath, D., Ill.

"The welfare of the nation is being relegated to the proverbial ashcan," said Rep. Louis C. Rabaut, D., Mich.

"Surrender to the black market," roared Rep. A. S. Mike Monroney, D., Okla.

Others warned that the bill, by allowing price increases, would bring a new rash of strikes as workers sought higher pay to maintain their living standards.

Their fears appeared to have strong grounds. In Chicago, Walter Reuther, president of the CIO United Auto Workers and the man who led the long strike against General Motors Corp., raised the threat of another wage battle if price controls are lifted.

"Things are going very badly now," he said, "and if they continued to go as badly, we'll be knocking on General Motors' door again."

In his radio speech, Bowles denied rumors that he intended to quit his stabilization job because he felt the anti-inflation fight was lost. But he made clear his conviction that the amendments of the house coalition would mean "almost unbearable hardship" for fixed-income groups.

said. The Ford Motor company blamed shortages of steel and parts for the layoff of 45,000 men last night.

Some eastern railroads may be forced to curtail service within the next two weeks, it was said.

Another report from Solid Fuels Administrator J. A. Krug estimated that the country had a 40-day coal supply when the strike began. Many industrial consumers, however, had limited stocks.

While electric utilities had an average supply of three months, 100 companies had less than a 10-day supply, 200 had 11 to 20 days and 200 had 21 to 30 days. From 1,650,000 tons of coal accumulated by a freeze order March 28, SFA has released 200,000 tons to hospitals, utilities and other essential users.

Krug said SFA was beginning to receive "frantic appeals" from industrial consumers, who cannot qualify for emergency allotments and must curtail or suspend production.

cluding Madame Chiang Kai-Shek and Madame Chou En-Lai, wife of the top Communist official here.

A dispatch from Changchun dated April 17 and filed by five American correspondents, including Reynolds Packard of the United Press, said the garrison was still holding out with ammunition parachuted into the city by Nationalist planes.

This dispatch said the big Yamato hotel, a Nationalist stronghold, had been occupied by Communists after they seized the city's railroad station.

The newspaper Ta Kung said today that Mukden authorities are sending a neutral plane to Changchun to rescue the American correspondents. It would presumably have to land on one of the city's Communist-held airfields.

The Chinese Central News agency reported that 40,000 Communist troops had taken the greater part of Changchun after a bloody 12-hour street battle.

Unconfirmed government reports, already 36 hours old, said more than half the city's defenders had been killed—possibly 2,000 to 3,500 men—and the situation was officially described as "very critical." Sometime after the American correspondents filed their dispatch yesterday all radio and telegraph communications with the city were broken.

tion order also was closely linked with the British offer to divert grain now enroute to Britain to European famine areas. The British said up to 80,000 tons of the grain would be given to the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration.

In return, however, the British demanded that this country and Canada take steps to insure a comparable savings of cereals, Maurice I. Hutton, British member of the combined food board, said several possible proposals had been considered.

He asked if a proposed order which would limit U. S. bakers to 75 per cent of the flour consumed during the corresponding period of 1945, would be sufficient assurance. Hutton replied that it would be "a very substantial cut."

At any rate, Hutton said, Canada and the United States now are considering the British offer. He said he expected an early reply.

This country is trying to send 1,100,000 tons of grain a month abroad during the next three months to make up for a $13,000 ton deficit in American exports during the first quarter of 1945.

UNRRA Director General Elio-riello H. La Guardia has demanded that UNRRA's cereal allocation be stepped up from 275,000 to 700,000 tons a month the first of May. He also wants another 350,000 tons of cereal immediately.

SENATE STUDIES POSSIBILITY OF LOAN DEMANDS

WASHINGTON, April 18—The senate today explored the possibility that approval of the proposed $3,750,000,000 loan to Great Britain might touch off a firecracker string of loan demands from other foreign countries.

Sen. Robert A. Taft, R., O., planned to take the floor to discuss other possible loans, and plug his proposal for an outright gift of $1,250,000,000 to Great Britain instead of a loan.

Several other senators raised the question of probable additional demands for financial assistance during yesterday's opening debate.

Senate Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley, Ky., assured the senate, however, that the British proposal was the only one likely to be brought before congress. He said loans to other countries will be made through the export-import bank set up by congress for such purposes.

tribunal he was resolved to bare his guilt.

"I will bear my responsibility," he said. "When Adolf Hitler ended his life, I made a resolution that I would state that the responsibility for my deeds was mine as clearly as I possibly could."

He said he turned over voluntarily to the American soldiers who arrested him the 43 volumes of his diary in which he recorded the events in Poland and his share in them.

Asked by his lawyer, Alfred Seidl, whether he felt guilty of violating international law and of crimes against humanity, Frank said:

"I have only to say that I am asking this tribunal to decide upon the degree of my guilt at the end of this case. Speaking from the very depth of my sentiment and from the experience of five months at this trial, I want to say now that I have gained an insight into all that has been committed, and I feel a terrible guilt within me."

IRAN RENEWS DISPUTE OVER BAHREIN ISLAND

TEHRAN, April 18—Iran today challenged the British protectorate over the oil-rich Bahrain island in the Persian gulf and asserted that she considers the island an integral part of Iran.

The government issued a decree ordering that taxes be levied upon Bahrain oil production just as they are levied upon the production of the Anglo-Iranian oil company in southern Iran.

Whether Iran proposes to raise the question of Bahrain's ownership before the United Nations was not known but the issue has long been a cause of dispute between Iran and Britain. The case was brought up last in 1927 when Iran filed a claim to the island with the League of Nations.

The oil production of Bahrain is shared by Standard Oil of New Jersey and the Texas company. In addition to oil Bahrain—a low-lying sandbar 27 miles long and 10 miles wide—is the center of the rich Persian gulf pearl industry.

satisfactory talk" with the three officials who have publicly and repeatedly opposed the plan.

"The President feels sure, as he always has, that everything is going to work out satisfactorily," Ross said.

There was little outward evidence of Forrestal's opposition to merger when he left the White House.

He repeated an earlier statement approving the "idea" of unification—the closest possible coordination of the services. But, he reminded reporters, the desired form of this coordination remains to be worked out.

He described the conference with the President as an opportunity for the Navy to present its side of the unification picture. The Navy through its ranking personnel has battled unification since last Fall. There was also reason to believe that Mr. Truman took occasion to express his displeasure over the manner of the Navy opposition.

said. The Ford Motor company blamed shortages of steel and parts for the layoff of 45,000 men last night.

Some eastern railroads may be forced to curtail service within the next two weeks, it was said.

Another report from Solid Fuels Administrator J. A. Krug estimated that the country had a 40-day coal supply when the strike began. Many industrial consumers, however, had limited stocks.

While electric utilities had an average supply of three months, 100 companies had less than a 10-day supply, 200 had 11 to 20 days and 200 had 21 to 30 days. From 1,650,000 tons of coal accumulated by a freeze order March 28, SFA has released 200,000 tons to hospitals, utilities and other essential users.

Krug said SFA was beginning to receive "frantic appeals" from industrial consumers, who cannot qualify for emergency allotments and must curtail or suspend production.

cluding Madame Chiang Kai-Shek and Madame Chou En-Lai, wife of the top Communist official here.

A dispatch from Changchun dated April 17 and filed by five American correspondents, including Reynolds Packard of the United Press, said the garrison was still holding out with ammunition parachuted into the city by Nationalist planes.

This dispatch said the big Yamato hotel, a Nationalist stronghold, had been occupied by Communists after they seized the city's railroad station.

The newspaper Ta Kung said today that Mukden authorities are sending a neutral plane to Changchun to rescue the American correspondents. It would presumably have to land on one of the city's Communist-held airfields.

The Chinese Central News agency reported that 40,000 Communist troops had taken the greater part of Changchun after a bloody 12-hour street battle.

Unconfirmed government reports, already 36 hours old, said more than half the city's defenders had been killed—possibly 2,000 to 3,500 men—and the situation was officially described as "very critical." Sometime after the American correspondents filed their dispatch yesterday all radio and telegraph communications with the city were broken.

tion order also was closely linked with the British offer to divert grain now enroute to Britain to European famine areas. The British said up to 60,000 tons of the grain would be given to the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration.

In return, however, the British demanded that this country and Canada take steps to insure a comparable savings of cereals. Maurice I. Hutton, British member of the combined food board, said several possible proposals had been considered.

He asked if a proposed order which would limit U. S. bakers to 75 per cent of the flour consumed during the corresponding period of 1945, would be sufficient assurance. Hutton replied that it would be "a very substantial cut."

At any rate, Hutton said, Canada and the United States now are considering the British offer. He said he expected an early reply.

This country is trying to send 1,100,000 tons of grain a month abroad during the next three months to make up for a $13,000 ton deficit in American exports during the first quarter of 1945.

UNRRA Director General Edoardo H. La Guardia has demanded that UNRRA's cereal allocation be stepped up from 275,000 to 700,000 tons a month the first of May. He also wants another 350,000 tons of cereal immediately.

SENATE STUDIES POSSIBILITY OF LOAN DEMANDS

WASHINGTON, April 18—The senate today explored the possibility that approval of the proposed $3,750,000,000 loan to Great Britain might touch off a firecracker string of loan demands from other foreign countries.

Sen. Robert A. Taft, R., O., planned to take the floor to discuss other possible loans, and plug his proposal for an outright gift of $1,250,000,000 to Great Britain instead of a loan.

Several other senators raised the question of probable additional demands for financial assistance during yesterday's opening debate.

Senate Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley, Ky., assured the senate, however, that the British proposal was the only one likely to be brought before congress. He said loans to other countries will be made through the export-import bank set up by congress for such purposes.

WINIFRED COOPER, 21-year-old Oakland, Cal., girl, is on a strict diet today—and for a good reason. She swallowed a pencil more than four inches long, complete with eraser. Holding the pencil in her mouth, Miss Cooper explains, she gulped and down it went. Doctors have placed her on the diet in hope they can avoid an operation to remove the pencil, which is now located in the girl's stomach, as shown at the left in an x-ray photo. tribunal he was resolved to bare his guilt.

"I will bear my responsibility," he said. "When Adolf Hitler ended his life, I made a resolution that I would state that the responsibility for my deeds was mine as clearly as I possibly could."

He said he turned over voluntarily to the American soldiers who arrested him the 43 volumes of his diary in which he recorded the events in Poland and his share in them.

Asked by his lawyer, Alfred Seidl, whether he felt guilty of violating international law and of crimes against humanity, Frank said:

"I have only to say that I am asking this tribunal to decide upon the degree of my guilt at the end of this case. Speaking from the very depth of my sentiment and from the experience of five months at this trial, I want to say now that I have gained an insight into all that has been committed, and I feel a terrible guilt within me."

IRAN RENEWS DISPUTE OVER BAHREIN ISLAND

TEHRAN, April 18—Iran today challenged the British protectorate over the oil-rich Bahrain Island in the Persian gulf and asserted that she considers the island an integral part of Iran.

The government issued a decree ordering that taxes be levied upon Bahrain oil production just as they are levied upon the production of the Anglo-Iranian oil company in southern Iran.

Whether Iran proposes to raise the question of Bahrain's ownership before the United Nations was not known but the issue has long been a cause of dispute between Iran and Britain. The case was brought up last in 1927 when Iran filed a claim to the island with the League of Nations.

The oil production of Bahrain is shared by Standard Oil of New Jersey and the Texas company. In addition to oil Bahrain—a low-lying sandbar 27 miles long and 10 miles wide—is the center of the rich Persian gulf pearl industry.

satisfactory talk" with the three officials who have publicly and repeatedly opposed the plan.

"The President feels sure, as he always has, that everything is going to work out satisfactorily," Ross said.

There was little outward evidence of Forrestal's opposition to merger when he left the White House.

He repeated an earlier statement approving the "idea" of unification—the closest possible coordination of the services. But, he reminded reporters, the desired form of this coordination remains to be worked out.

He described the conference with the President as an opportunity for the Navy to present its side of the unification picture. The Navy through its ranking personnel has battled unification since last Fall. There was also reason to believe that Mr. Truman took occasion to express his displeasure over the manner of the Navy opposition.

WIFE ASKS ALIMONY, CUSTODY OF CHILD, 9

Declaring that Lawrence Styers, South Clinton street, came home with lipstick on his shirt and handkerchief and that he has failed to support his wife and child since he resigned his job Feb. 12 as a truck driver, Mrs. Helen Styers filed suit against him, Thursday, in Pickaway county common pleas court asking alimony and the custody of their nine-year-old son, Fred.

Judge Emmitt L. Crist granted a temporary injunction restraining Styers from disposing of property and from interfering with Mrs. Styers or the son during the pendency of the suit.

Mrs. Styers says in her petition that they were married Sept. 15, 1935 at Greensburg, Ky., that while driving a truck to West Virginia for the Winorr Canning Company her husband met two girls, and that he later informed her he had arranged for them to come to Circleville so that he could have "dates" with them.

FARMERS WORRY ABOUT INCREASE IN PRICES PAID

Farm Bureau Favors OPA With Adjustments In Selling Land Products

Ohio farmers are getting worried about their place in the economic picture since wages are being hiked and the cost of some manufactured items are going up while prices of agricultural products remain static, according to M. D. Lincoln, general manager of the Ohio Farm Bureau, Columbus.

Mr. Lincoln released information today that the board of directors of the state Farm Bureau Cooperative Association in session this week went on record favoring continuation of the Office of Price Administration to protect the country against inflation, but demanding recognition by the federal agency of any disparity which might be created through higher prices for items which farmers buy as compared to the prices they receive for their products. The following resolution was adopted by the directors:

"Recognizing the anxiety among farmers who have been witnessing rising wages in labor and a lifting of ceiling prices on some manufactured items in recent months, we issue the following statement in regard to our viewpoint on farm prices:

"We favor the continuance of the Office of Price Administration until the danger of serious inflation has passed, as we know of no other force working to check it. However, we demand that this government agency recognize the importance of farm prices keeping pace with any rises in wages and industrial products which may create a disparity or inequality based on the ratio of prices farmers received and prices they paid for manufactured items at the time of 'Hold the Line' order in May, 1943, and/or not less unfavorable as of this date.

"We favor the elimination of price control on any farm or industrial product whenever supply equals the demand."

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh
Mat Fisher versus Ed's Big Toe
Mat Fisher's our local weather man... and planning for the picnic of our town Improvement Club, Mat persuades us to postpone it until Tuesday—since it's going to rain for three days, starting Saturday the 8th.
But Ed Whittle claims he can feel rain in his big toe—and he says there isn't a drop in prospect for at least three days!
Well, it's bright and sunny on the 8th—and 9th—and 10th. But come the day of the picnic, it pours rain like Jupiter Pluvius—and we hold it in Ma Hoskins' parlor, drinking beer and roasting hot dogs.
Of course, Ed razzes Mat no end. But nobody's sore. In fact, they like Mat just a little better, being an expert and being wrong. (And from where I sit, a stormy day indoors before a fire makes a hot dog and a glass of beer extra appetizing!)

Mat Fisher versus Ed's Big Toe

Mat Fisher's our local weather man ... and planning for the picnic of our town Improvement Club, Mat persuades us to postpone it until Tuesday—since it's going to rain for three days, starting Saturday the 8th.

But Ed Whortle claims he can feel rain in his big toe—and he says there isn't a drop in prospect for at least three days!

Well, it's bright and sunny on the 8th—and 9th—and 10th. But come the day of the picnic, it pours rain like Jupiter Pluvius—and we hold it in Ma Hoskins' parlor, drinking beer and roasting hot dogs.

Of course, Ed razzes Mat no end. But nobody's sore. In fact, they like Mat just a little better, being an expert and being wrong. (And from where I sit, a stormy day indoors before a fire makes a hot dog and a glass of beer extra appetizing!)

NEW DEAL SETUP IS THREATENED BY REBELLION

Southern Democrats Seize Control Of Democrat Caucus Session

WASHINGTON, April 18—Pressure of a conservative rebellion threatened today to crack the New Deal-Democratic political coalition created by the late Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Angry southern Democratic members of the house seized control of a party caucus last night and named a special committee to prevent party leaders from punishing them for insurgency.

This election year development need not seriously affect Democratic prospects in congressional contests. But it hoisted significant danger signals for the party's 1948 national convention. When that Democratic conclave gathers to name a presidential ticket and write a platform, the battle between the regulars and the left wing will be on. It promises to be a bruising and perhaps destructive contest.

Approximately 165 of the 239 Democratic members of the house met in caucus late last night after an evening house session in which a Republican-Democratic combination ripped the administration's price control program to bits. The caucus met on call of enraged southerners who believe that the national committee chairman Robert E. Hannegan is gunning for them. They were angered by a statement in a national committee publication criticizing Democratic legislators who recently voted curbs on the powers of organized labor.

Hannegan explained and apologized for that one. Soon afterward local Democratic leaders received letters from the national committee urging extreme care in selecting candidates for congress in this year's primary elections. These letters went to many districts which now are represented by Democratic house members. Some congressmen believed the committee was seeking to purge members who opposed administration bills. Hannegan said the letters were mailed in error.

Hard feeling was increased by Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace's recent suggestion that congressmen opposing the administration on really fundamental issues should be tossed out of the party.

The Democratic caucus adjourned last night shortly before midnight. It had voted down a "harmony" resolution which would have directed the existing Democratic congressional campaign committee to conduct liaison within the party membership and between congressional Democrats and the national committee. Rep. Estes Kefauver, D. Tenn., offered that resolution. It was supported largely by the northern Democrats present. They, in turn, are the party members most intimately linked with the Congress of Industrial Organizations and the National

Circus Coming Here Monday, April 29

LEADING the circus parade and flanked by four lovely lassies is Big Burma, pride of the Mills Brothers three-ring circus and said to be the largest trained elephant in the world. Playing under the auspices of the Circleville Junior Chamber of Commerce, the circus will present two performances at the fairgrounds on Monday, April 29.

Many Features Offered By Mills Bros. Circus

This year as in years past, the circus once again comes to Circleville. But this year it is a bigger, a new and streamlined circus; the Mills Bros. greater 3-ring circus scheduled to play here Monday, April 29 under the auspices of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Featuring a galaxy of "big-top" talent new to these parts, the Mills Bros. Circus presents a host of breath-taking, death defying acts and thrills. For example, there's Buffalo Ben, famous among Indian scouts and one of the few old time plainsman still alive.

Another star attraction is Big Burma, ponderous pedigree, pachydermic performer. Acclaimed by experts to be the largest performing elephant in captivity, Big Burma was captured in the jungles of Asia and brought by special boat to this country.

Still another "must" for the circusgoers is the unusual array of trained educated animal performers. Mills Bros. Circus offers steel-lar animal acts among which are numbered the outstanding Liberty Horses, Military ponies, educated dogs, monkeys and other acts in unequalled plentitude.

A home state show, the circus is owned and operated exclusively by three Ohioans—Jack, Jake, and Harry Mills. For the past five years, the Mills Bros. Circus has been thrilling audiences throughout the United States... playing first to Ohio folk, then touring to reach thirty states and cover more than fifteen thousand miles.

The circus arrives here on Sunday morning. However, no performance will be given that day as the Mills Bros. Circus never plays on the Sabbath. Nonetheless, the public is invited on Sunday—free of charge—to come to the fair grounds and view the animals taking their Sunday rest.

Committees of the Junior Chamber of Commerce headed by Frank Wantz are busily engaged in the advance sale of tickets. The Junior Chamber of Commerce is to receive 50% of the money collected prior to circus date; and 10% of the box office receipts on the date of performance.

Two performances will be given: at 2 p. m. and again at 8 p. m. The doors will open one hour earlier.

MORE FLOWERS TO BE WORN IN EASTER PARADE

Florists Fear Supplies May
Be Exhausted Before
Demand Is Met

CHICAGO, April 18—There will be more flowers worn in this year's Easter parade than ever before, and florists feared today that the supply might not meet the demand.

Hubert Wolf, executive secretary of the Allied Florists association, said the nation's florists anticipate their biggest season for the first peacetime Easter in five years. He warned, however, that the supply, though good, would not come up to pre-war standards.

Wolf said that gardenias, orchids, carnations, lilies and other hot-house flowers were plentiful throughout the country. Because this is a late Easter, however, many other flowers will have passed the peak blooming period. "Veterans are our best customers, and the gaudier a corsage, the better they like it," he said. "They think nothing of ordering a mixture of red and yellow roses, with some pink carnations on the side."

For long-lasting qualities, Wolf suggested orchids or carnations, or some of the hardier spring flowers.

Women, he said, think they're getting a bargain if they settle for a gardenia, but there's more mileage in an orchid than any other flower. With proper treatment, he said, an orchid can last two weeks and look new for a dozen parties. You can pay up to $30 for an orchid, traditionally an expensive choice. Smaller models may be had for as little as $5 each.

Gardenias start at approximately $1 apiece and $3.50 for the larger and rarer blossoms, a dozen roses will cost $6.00 and up, and mixed corsages range in price from $3.00 to $30.00 or more.

One of the newer and more popular flowers, Wolf said, is the cymidium, or spray orchid, which consists of several smaller flowers on a single spray and comes in seven shades. It also comes with a higher price tag than the more orthodox flowers.

Among the potted flowers, Wolf said that there was a good supply of American-grown lilies, which formerly came exclusively from Japan. Prices begin at approximately $5, an increase over pre-war years, because of the higher cost of American labor.

WITH HIS alleged offenses characterized by Judge Jennie Lottman Barron at Boston as the most "atrocious and heinous" in her experience, Army Air Force Lt. Thomas Farrell, 24, veteran of 34 missions against the Japs, was charged in Boston's municipal court with burning his initials on the breast, thighs and hips of an 18-year-old stenographer, Miss Helen Stavron, above. Lieutenant Farrell said he was estranged from his wife and 2-year-old child, both in Los Angeles. (International)

Wolf advised gardenia buyers, to leave the flowers in the florist's box in the refrigerator until ready to use, and don't sniff at them—they last longer.

Gardenias "breathe" through their petals, he said, and the human breath causes them to turn brown that much sooner.

WESTINGHOUSE PLANS TO MAKE IMPROVEMENTS

PITTSBURGH, April 18—Westinghouse Electric Corp. announced today that $100,000,000 worth of production has been lost in the 93-day strike of CIO United Electrical workers, but that it will go ahead with its $58,000,000 expansion and improvement program in 1946.

Westinghouse president Gwilym A. Price, in a statement released at the annual meeting of stockholders, said that the corporation is negotiating a bank loan of $80,000,000 to meet its financial obligations and to finance the expansion program.

Negotiations with the union were resumed yesterday on an "exploratory" basis, and were understood to center on wage scales for 10,000 lamp division workers, one of the main stumbling blocks in the way of early settlement.

In France, snails are considered quite a delicacy. The first man to eat one was certainly a great, though unsung hero.

MORE FLOWERS TO BE WORN IN EASTER PARADE

Florists Fear Supplies May
Be Exhausted Before
Demand Is Met

CHICAGO, April 18—There will be more flowers worn in this year's Easter parade than ever before, and florists feared today that the supply might not meet the demand.

Hubert Wolf, executive secretary of the Allied Florists association, said the nation's florists anticipate their biggest season for the first peacetime Easter in five years. He warned, however, that the supply, though good, would not come up to pre-war standards.

Wolf said that gardenias, orchids, carnations, lilies and other hot-house flowers were plentiful throughout the country. Because this is a late Easter, however, many other flowers will have passed the peak blooming period. "Veterans are our best customers, and the gaudier a corsage, the better they like it," he said. "They think nothing of ordering a mixture of red and yellow roses, with some pink carnations on the side."

For long-lasting qualities, Wolf suggested orchids or carnations, or some of the harder Spring flowers.

Women, he said, think they're getting a bargain if they settle for a gardenia, but there's more mileage in an orchid than any other flower. With proper treatment, he said, an orchid can last two weeks and look new for a dozen parties.

You can pay up to $30 for an orchid, traditionally an expensive choice. Smaller models may be had for as little as $5 each.

Gardenias start at approximately $1 apiece and $3.50 for the larger and rarer blossoms, a dozen roses will cost $6.00 and up, and mixed corsages range in price from $3.00 to $30.00 or more.

One of the newer and more popular flowers, Wolf said, is the cymidium, or spray orchid, which consists of several smaller flowers on a single spray and comes in seven shades. It also comes with a higher price tag than the more orthodox flowers.

Among the potted flowers, Wolf said that there was a good supply of American-grown lilies, which formerly came exclusively from Japan. Prices begin at approximately $5, an increase over pre-war years, because of the higher cost of American labor.

Wolf advised gardenia buyers, to leave the flowers in the florist's box in the refrigerator until ready to use, and don't sniff at them—they last longer.

Gardenias "breathe" through their petals, he said, and the human breath causes them to turn brown that much sooner.

WESTINGHOUSE PLANS TO MAKE IMPROVEMENTS

PITTSBURGH, April 18—Westinghouse Electric Corp. announced today that $100,000,000 worth of production has been lost in the 93-day strike of CIO United Electrical workers, but that it will go ahead with its $58,000,000 expansion and improvement program in 1946.

Westinghouse president Gwilym A. Price, in a statement released at the annual meeting of stockholders, said that the corporation is negotiating a bank loan of $80,000,000 to meet its financial obligations and to finance the expansion program.

Negotiations with the union were resumed yesterday on an "exploratory" basis, and were understood to center on wage scales for 10,000 lamp division workers, one of the main stumbling blocks in the way of early settlement.

In France, snails are considered quite a delicacy. The first man to eat one was certainly a great, though unsung hero.

NEW FOOD PLAN

WITH the whole world made food-conscious by the starving millions in Europe and Asia, a scientific approach to production, utilization and distribution of food in the United States is contemplated. A National Research Institute is called for in a new bill favored by Congressional leaders.

The institute would be headed by a director appointed by the president and answerable to the Secretary of Agriculture. The reform would reorganize the Agriculture Department and also affect several agencies under the Department of Commerce, whose function would be transferred to the institute, particularly those relating to the processing, distribution and marketing of food. Representative Jenkins, of Ohio, chairman of the committee making the recommendations, maintains that the bill would result in more economical administration of all matters relating to American food production.

It is a matter for careful and wise consideration. The USA does not seem to have acted with much dispatch or efficiency with regard to its own or the world's food needs in the present world emergency. Other branches of this government could also use greater efficiency to advantage.

CAR TELEPHONES

RADIO telephones for automobiles are expected to be ready for use by June. Experiments are being conducted in both Detroit and San Francisco to perfect the equipment.

Commuters who drive long distances between home and office will doubtless consider the dashboard phone a great invention, permitting them to begin the day's work at the office before they get there. But the ship-to-shore principle applied to dry-land traffic suggests a somewhat confused picture. Busy executives used to interruptions at the office may find themselves up against a new kind of test when they start telephoning their secretaries about the morning mail, listening to the news on the car radio, and dodging rush-hour traffic all at the same time.

Another thing we'd like to know is how the human race rates now among the angels.

"Recreation begins at home," says an editorial, but Junior wants to know how much recreation a kid can get in a flat.

They don't really have to yell "Dwight's all right" in the parades because everybody knows it.

It isn't fair to make any more nasty cracks about the British — they've done their bit.

Excuse it, please, but they say the air force is getting the ax without axing for it.

With Jack Gaver Along Broadway

BY JACK GAVAR

NEW YORK, April 18—Now that the baseball season has started you can expect to find some celebrated "glass arm" cases creeping into the news any day. But there is an occupation aside from pitching that is menaced by the same ailment—orchestra conducting, of all things.

Lloyd Shaffer, who works for the National Broadcasting Company, was a recent victim. He went around with his right arm in a sling feeling a little silly, but there wasn't any getting away from the fact that the wing wouldn't function until after weeks of treatment.

"The orchestra was playing too softly," Shaffer explained. "I threw up my arm to indicate a strong upbeat. At the same time the director tossed me a cue. In trying to watch both the orchestra and director, I turned my head and lost my balance. A sharp pain shot through my shoulder and my right arm fell helplessly to my side. My doctor prescribed therapeutic treatment, oil massage and baking. It was six weeks before I could again lift a baton."

The classical baton technique is as involved and important as a pitcher's windup and throw and any little thing that interrupts the smoothness of either is liable to cause a sore arm.

Shaffer says that nearly all conductors suffer from a "glass arm" at sometime or other and cites these examples: Arturo Toscanini, as a result of someone in the audience sneezing; Eugene Ormandy, when a fly landed on his ear; Leopold Stokowski, as result of a violinist dropping his bow; Phil Spitalny, when a drummer in his all-girl orchestra stopped during rehearsal to powder her nose.

Constant exercise is about the only thing that will help a conductor in avoiding this occupational ailment and that doesn't always work. Shaffer spends a lot of time each day warming up his money arm by putting it through the conducting motions in front of a mirror. Before a rehearsal or performance he gives his arm and extra workout, just as a pitcher warms up before a game.

"But the most embarrassing version of the 'glass arm' I ever witnessed couldn't have been prevented by any amount of arm exercising," Shaffer said. "This accident befell one of those female conductors who led her band with her hips."

Unless a strong independent ticket is put in the field before June 7, veteran actor Clarence Derwent, currently appearing in "Lute Song," will be the next president of Actors Equity Assn., the all-powerful players' union. Election on that date will be for a three-year term. The nominating committee selected Derwent as its choice for a successor to Bert Lytell, who wants to quit the post after serving for six years. Lytell will be given some sort of an emeritus designation.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 18—The accounts of the advancement of a labor mediation bill sounded like the senate labor committee had given in at last. This old guard of the CIO on the committee, which never before had let through a bill unwanted by leftwing unions, had surrendered to Mr. Truman, at least to the extent of doing something about strikes! The senatorial clique of leftist sympathizers who recently wished to purge the Democratic party of all opposition to Truman except their own, had decided to purge themselves of opposition in this case! Yeah?

The news given out was sufficiently sparse to encourage such a belief—among the unwary. The published reports I saw handed to newsmen by the committee said nothing even about a vote in the committee, but left the idea only three awful Republicans were against what was proposed—and what was proposed was a five man board to mediate these disputes, and stop them, yes sir.

Behind this sparse news was more news than two columns could carry. But it was all of the same character as the dominant concealed fact, namely:

The leftwingers all voted against their own bill.

They worked it this way: When the Case bill which had been passed by the house came over to the senate proposing Mr. Truman's factfinding plan with a couple of added bicuspids, the labor committee folded it aside and quietly sat on it. Not until all the strikes were over, did they act—that is all the big CIO strikes except Westinghouse. But not the coal strike of John Lewis whom they oppose. The auto strike in which the unions promised they wanted no wage increase which would increase prices was over, but not the auto price increases which resulted, one having been already imposed on the public a few weeks ago, and another being currently promised in the news.

The committee outwaited the public. The pressure from the people for action by the government against the strike campaign died down. Right at that moment three weeks ago, the committee acted in secret approving this new mediation bill. Then it waited three weeks more—to be certain, to take no chances.

It was evident in the news accounts I saw that the bill had been stripped not only to the bone, but beneath. One finger was left of the original proposition, a finger without a body, or even nerve direction. It was the proposition to institute a mediation board, without a cooling off period for strikes (let us have them as in the past,) without arbitration, without anything. The government, of course, already has a mediation service. It proposed what is already being done.

But even this one finger proposition, the text of the committee report discloses, was opposed by the dominating committee clique, namely the chairman Senator Murray, Pepper, Guffey, Hill, Chavez and Thomas.

Boy, do we take chances in the CIO and our senate labor committee! We wait until the public has forgotten everything, we hope, including the promise of no price increases for our wage increases—then wait three weeks longer—then emasculate the president's mild factfinding plan (so mild the rail brotherhoods have lived and prospered into the strongest of unions under a similar arrangement providing cooling off periods) then what do we do, in our daring in the public behalf? Give in to our party leader and bravely give him what he says is necessary? Nope, we sign a supple-

Why the New-Born Baby Cries

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

EVERY inexperienced mother is disturbed by her new-born baby's crying. To her, it is a definite distress signal and all her maternal solicitude prompts her to rush relief. Unfortunately, she is often puzzled as to what to do since there is no way for the infant to tell her just what is troubling him.

Dr. Charles A. Aldrich and his co-workers of the Mayo Clinic have made a study of crying in a large number of babies, in order to obtain accurate information as to the amount of crying which occurs and to find the causes. Fifty babies were observed. A record was kept of each period of crying and the possible reasons for it.

Crying Varied

It was found, of course, that the amount of crying varied to a great extent. For example, the baby who cried the least, cried only 48.2 minutes per day while the baby who cried the most, averaged 243 minutes a day or about four hours. The average for all of the babies was about 117 minutes a day.

It was found that the amount of crying increased day by day after birth until the fourth day. From the fourth to the sixth day it remained at a fairly even level and then the amount of crying gradually became less. Babies taking their food best seemed to cry the least.

Among the causes for crying noted were hunger, vomiting, and soiled or wet diapers. But the crying for unknown reasons far exceeded that for any of the known causes. Just what is the significance of this crying for unknown reasons is difficult to say.

Perhaps it may be a need for fondling and perhaps it is the baby's way of getting some exercise. For the most part a baby cries because he wants something.

Change of Environment

It should be remembered, Dr. Aldrich points out, that the new-born baby has undergone a radical change in environment. In the months before birth, the baby has become accustomed to a quiet, dark, warm existence, in which he needs not exert himself at all to obtain food or oxygen.

All at once he is thrust into independent life and finds that he must work for a living. The lungs must begin to breathe, the throat to swallow food, the stomach to digest it. As if this weren't bad enough, Baby is assailed by all sorts of new and strange, and hence unpleasant, sensations, noise, bright lights, cool and dry air. It would be strange, Dr. Aldrich concludes, if he didn't resent all these changes.

Quite naturally, then, he is going to register protest in the only way he can, by crying.

Nonetheless, it would appear that a great deal of further study of crying in babies is necessary to determine just what are its unknown reasons. Until these are found, Mother can follow only one rule to do all she can to make Baby comfortable and then, if crying occurs, not to worry about it.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

I WAITED for Brenda to calm down, sure she would tell me something of importance. And waited too long.

She suddenly put down the glass and smiled again. "I'm a fool! I really should see a doctor about my nerves!" she confided. "They play me the craziest tricks. Just now, your words made such a vivid picture, I almost changed my mind about—what I was going to ask you."

"What you were going to ask me?" I repeated stupidly.

She nodded. "Yes, you probably know that Polly Woodford is going to the coast tomorrow—running away from all that horrid publicity. Well, he has asked me to move into his apartment during his absence, and I haven't yet given him my answer, because I just wanted to make sure you didn't object to having me for a neighbor."

"That certainly was an unexpected development. Of course I don't object. Why should I?" I asked.

"Oh—you might just not like me," she shrugged. But her eyes fell under my glance.

"No—Brenda! It isn't that at all. It's you—have a bad conscience," I told her on the spur of the moment. "Why don't you come clean and admit you weren't lost the night you wandered into the Elmpoint grounds? And that you'd planned to be invited to stay?"

Brenda gasped and looked guilty, like a child caught at some misdeed. And then, suddenly, the color drained out of her face again and her eyes kindled in understanding dread.

"You're right. I did. But you mustn't think—No, oh, no! It had nothing to do with the murder," she gasped out defensively.

"Are you sure?" I insisted.

"Quite sure. Oh, quite sure! I only wish I could tell you the whole story, all my— She broke off miserably and shook her head. "I can't! Please believe me and let me take Polly's apartment," she pleaded tonelessly, laying her hand on mine.

Any sensible person would have said, "No," after just hearing Brenda's tacit confession of having wormed her way into Elmpoint, for heaven knew what crazy reason. But, being the dope I am, I patted her hand and said: "It's all right, Brenda. So long as you're sure you have nothing to do with Margo's Ingalls' death, go ahead and move in."

I only realized what I had done when, on my way to the office from the Vandermere, I found myself making excuses for my own folly, such as: Brenda's purpose for her invasion of Elmpoint couldn't have been very terrible and I liked her anyway, mystery or no, and was sorry for her besides. She seemed so alone and helpless, in spite of her gorgeous clothes and jewels.

And then the thought of the jewels did the trick. I suddenly became conscious of the fact that Brenda had worn her lovely rose pin at lunch, but that the hand she had laid on mine had been bare: The huge diamond which had flashed on it in Elmpoint had been missing.

Somehow it bothered me, no matter how firmly I told myself she'd probably just not felt like wearing it today, and I decided I couldn't go on keeping my hunches and doubts about her from the police.

I still hadn't any wish to tell Inspector Barry my story, mainly for fear he'd laugh at me for my pains. But—Hunt Berwick was taking me to dinner tonight. Hunt Berwick had seen through her deception from the first. He was the logical person with whom to discuss the riddle of Brenda Knight.

Hunt was already waiting for me when Claire and I came home after office hours. "I got back sooner than I'd thought, so here I am, sitting on your doorstep," he greeted me. "By the way, Kennard was here when I arrived. But when he saw me he beat it as though all hell were after him."

"Why wouldn't he? Nobody loves a policeman," Claire told him dryly. "Well, well! And practically the whole force is married. What a lot of mercenary hustlers there must be in New York," Hunt teased her good naturedly.

"That's right," she assured him with a grin. "Behold one of them in me! I'm going to do up right now, and snare a rich man into feeding me steak. And when I've reached the bursting point I'll reward him by sharing his expensive box in the newest hit show with him. So long, you two. Try and talk of something besides murder."

"Sound advice," Hunt approved when Claire had disappeared into her room. "But—can we do it?"

I didn't think so, and shook my head. And he agreed: "Okay, we can't. So let's get it out of our systems before we go to dinner. Shall I start?"

His visit to Kentucky, it seemed, had been a complete washout. Margo's last husband definitely was not guilty of her murder or complicity in it, and hadn't the faintest idea for whom she had divorced him.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

GREAT POST-WAR BOOM

"QUICK! PICK UP the cards!" And on every reported occasion, when a game was broken up by enemy attack, one of the players rescued the precious pasteboards.

Often they were irreplaceable, and often that deck of cards was the only game equipment our men had. It was so in every theater of action in which American forces fought. For nothing else was small enough and light enough to be carried on the person of a heavily burdened fighter.

That is the principal reason why more hours were spent at card playing than any other recreation in those monotonous stretches of time between strenuous activities. It is also the main reason why more card players are developed in wartime than in peace.

Every war has been followed by a great war boom in card games, when a multitude of new players has returned from the fight. After the Spanish-American war, the boom was in bridge whist. Following World War I, it was in auction bridge. This time it is, of course, mainly in contract bridge, though it shows also in the amount of poker and gin-rummy being played, plus a certain amount of pinochle, cribbage and other card pastimes.

Those who picked up bridge from their wartime companions ashore or ashore or aloft, or on the war-plant home front—both men and women—are now men and women—felt in the countless home games, club contests, duplicate tournaments and in the great sectional and national championships. Every title event since the war has had more contestants than ever before.

Through various organizations, led by the American Contract

Bridge League, some 22 million decks of cards were shipped to our armed forces all over the world, in addition to other millions which the players bought themselves at post-exchange ship's stores and elsewhere, and those in gift boxes from friends and families. In some cases the services dealt out decks of cards as "regular issue," showing that they realized the potent value of the little pasteboards as morale builders.

NEW FOOD PLAN

WITH the whole world made food-conscious by the starving millions in Europe and Asia, a scientific approach to production, utilization and distribution of food in the United States is contemplated. A National Research Institute is called for in a new bill favored by Congressional leaders.

The institute would be headed by a director appointed by the president and answerable to the Secretary of Agriculture. The reform would reorganize the Agriculture Department and also affect several agencies under the Department of Commerce, whose function would be transferred to the institute, particularly those relating to the processing, distribution and marketing of food. Representative Jenkins, of Ohio, chairman of the committee making the recommendations, maintains that the bill would result in more economical administration of all matters relating to American food production.

It is a matter for careful and wise consideration. The USA does not seem to have acted with much dispatch or efficiency with regard to its own or the world's food needs in the present world emergency. Other branches of this government could also use greater efficiency to advantage.

CAR TELEPHONES

RADIO telephones for automobiles are expected to be ready for use by June. Experiments are being conducted in both Detroit and San Francisco to perfect the equipment.

Commuters who drive long distances between home and office will doubtless consider the dashboard phone a great invention, permitting them to begin the day's work at the office before they get there. But the ship-to-shore principle applied to dry-land traffic suggests a somewhat confused picture. Busy executives used to interruptions at the office may find themselves up against a new kind of test when they start telephoning their secretaries about the morning mail, listening to the news on the car radio, and dodging rush-hour traffic all at the same time.

Another thing we'd like to know is how the human race rates now among the angels.

"Recreation begins at home," says an editorial, but Junior wants to know how much recreation a kid can get in a flat.

They don't really have to yell "Dwight's all right" in the parades because everybody knows it.

It isn't fair to make any more nasty cracks about the British — they've done their bit.

Excuse it, please, but they say the air force is getting the ax without axing for it.

With Jack Gaver Along Broadway

NEW YORK, April 18—Now that the baseball season has started you can expect to find some celebrated "glass arm" cases creeping into the news any day. But there is an occupation aside from pitching that is menaced by the same ailment—orchestra conducting.

Lloyd Shaffer, who works for the National Broadcasting Company, was a recent victim. He went around with his right arm in a sling feeling a little silly, but there wasn't any getting away from the fact that the wing wouldn't function until after weeks of treatment.

"The orchestra was playing too softly," Shaffer explained. "I threw up my arm to indicate a strong upbeat. At the same time the director tossed me a cue. In trying to watch both the orchestra and director, I turned my head and lost my balance. A sharp pain shot through my shoulder and my right arm fell helplessly to my side. My doctor prescribed therapeutic treatment, oil massage and basting. It was six weeks before I could again lift a baton."

The classical baton technique is as involved and important as a pitcher's windup and throw and any little thing that interrupts the smoothness of either is liable to cause a sore arm.

Shaffer says that nearly all conductors suffer from a "glass arm" at some time or other and cites these examples: Arturo Toscanini, as a result of someone in the audience sneezing; Eugene Ormandy, when a fly landed on his ear; Leopold Stokowski, as a result of a violinist dropping his bow; Phil Spitalny, when a drummer in his all-girl orchestra stopped during rehearsal to powder her nose.

Constant exercise is about the only thing that will help a conductor in avoiding this occupational ailment and that doesn't always work. Shaffer spends a lot of time each day warming up his money arm by putting it through the conducting motions in front of a mirror.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 18—The accounts of the advancement of a labor mediation bill sounded like the senate labor committee had given in at last. This old guard of the CIO on the committee, which never before had let through a bill unwanted by leftwing unions, had surrendered to Mr. Truman, at least to the extent of doing something about strikes! The senatorial clique of leftist sympathizers who recently wished to purge the Democratic party of all opposition to Truman except their own, had decided to purge themselves of opposition in this case! Yeah?

The news given out was sufficiently sparse to encourage such a belief—among the unwary. The published reports I saw handed to newsmen by the committee said nothing even about a vote in the committee, but left the idea only three awful Republicans were against what was proposed—and what was proposed was a five man board to mediate these disputes, and stop them, yes sir.

Behind this sparse news was more news than two columns could carry. But it was all of the same character as the dominant concealed fact, namely:

The leftwingers all voted against their own bill.

They worked it this way: When the Case bill which had been passed by the house came over to the senate proposing Mr. Truman's factfinding plan with a couple of added bicuspidis, the labor committee folded it aside and quietly sat on it. Not until all the strikes were over, did they act—that is all the big CIO strikes except Westinghouse. But not the coal strike of John Lewis whom they oppose. The auto strike in which the unions promised they wanted no wage increase which would increase prices was over, but not the auto price increases which resulted, one having been already imposed on the public a few weeks ago, and another being currently promised in the news.

The committee outwaited the public. The pressure from the people for action by the government against the strike campaign died down. Right at that moment three weeks ago, the committee acted in secret approving this new mediation bill. Then it waited three weeks more—to be certain, to take no chances.

It was evident in the news accounts I saw that the bill had been stripped not only to the bone, but beneath. One finger was left of the original proposition, a finger without a body, or even nerve direction. It was the proposition to institute a mediation board, without a cooling off period for strikes (let us have them as in the past,) without arbitration, without anything. The government, of course, already has a mediation service. It proposed what is already being done.

But even this one finger proposition, the text of the committee report discloses, was opposed by the dominating committee clique, namely the chairman Senator Murray, Pepper, Guffey, Hill, Chavez and Thomas.

Boy, do we take chances in the CIO and our senate labor committee! We wait until the public has forgotten everything, we hope, including the promise of no price increases for our wage increases—then wait three weeks longer—then emasculate the president's mild factfinding plan (so mild the rail brotherhoods have lived and prospered into the strongest of unions under a similar arrangement providing cooling off periods) then what do we do, in our daring in the public behalf? Give in to our party leader and bravely give him what he says is necessary? Nope, we sign a supple-

Why the New-Born Baby Cries

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

EVERY inexperienced mother is disturbed by her new-born baby's crying. To her, it is a definite distress signal and all her maternal solicitude prompts her to rush relief. Unfortunately, she is often puzzled as to what to do since there is no way for the infant to tell her just what is troubling him.

Dr. Charles A. Aldrich and his co-workers of the Mayo Clinic have made a study of crying in a large number of babies, in order to obtain accurate information as to the amount of crying which occurs and to find the causes. Fifty babies were observed. A record was kept of each period of crying and the possible reasons for it.

Crying Varied

It was found, of course, that the amount of crying varied to a great extent. For example, the baby who cried the least, cried only 48.2 minutes per day while the baby who cried the most, averaged 243 minutes a day or about four hours. The average for all of the babies was about 117 minutes a day.

It was found that the amount of crying increased day by day after birth until the fourth day. From the fourth to the sixth day it remained at a fairly even level and then the amount of crying gradually became less. Babies taking their food best seemed to cry the least.

Among the causes for crying noted were hunger, vomiting, and soiled or wet diapers. But the crying for unknown reasons far exceeded that for any of the known causes. Just what is the significance of this crying for unknown reasons is difficult to say.

Perhaps it may be a need for fondling and perhaps it is the baby's way of getting some exercise. For the most part a baby cries because he wants something.

Change of Environment

It should be remembered, Dr. Aldrich points out, that the new-born baby has undergone a radical change in environment. In the months before birth, the baby has become accustomed to a quiet, dark, warm existence, in which he needs not exert himself at all even to obtain food or oxygen.

All at once he is thrust into independent life and finds that he must work for a living. The lungs must begin to breathe, the throat must swallow food, the stomach to digest it. As if this weren't bad enough, Baby is assailed by all sorts of new and strange, and hence unpleasant, sensations, noise, bright lights, cool and dry air. It would be strange, Dr. Aldrich concludes, if he didn't resent all these changes.

Quite naturally, then, he is going to register protest in the only way he can, by crying. Nonetheless, it would appear that a great deal of further study of crying in babies is necessary to determine just what are its unknown reasons. Until these are found, Mother can follow only one rule, to do all she can to make Baby comfortable and then, if crying occurs, not to worry about it.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

I WAITED for Brenda to calm down, sure she would tell me something of importance. And waited too long.

She suddenly put down the glass and smiled again. "I'm a fool! I really should see a doctor about my nerves!" she confided. "They play me the craziest tricks. Just now, your words made such a vivid picture, I almost changed my mind about—what I was going to ask you."

"What were you going to ask me?" I repeated stupidly.

She nodded. "Yes, you probably know that Polly Woodford is going to the coast tomorrow—running away from all that horrid publicity. Well, she has asked me to move into his apartment during his absence, and I haven't yet given him my answer, because I first wanted to make sure you didn't object to having me for a neighbor."

That certainly was an unexpected development. "Of course I don't object. Why should I?" I asked. "Oh—you might just not like me," she shrugged. But her eyes fell under my glance.

"No—Brenda! It isn't that at all. It's you—have a bad conscience," I told her on the spur of the moment. "Why don't you come clean and admit you weren't lost the night you wandered into the Elmpoint grounds? And that you'd planned to be invited to stay?"

Brenda gasped and looked guilty, like a child caught at some mischief. And then, suddenly, the color drained out of her face again and her eyes kindled in understanding dread.

"You're right. I did. But you mustn't think—No, no, no! It had nothing to do with—the murder," she gasped out defensively.

"Are you sure?" I insisted.

"Quite sure. Oh, quite sure! I only wish I could tell you the whole story, all my—She broke off miserably and shook her head. "I can't! Please believe me and let me take Polly's apartment," she pleaded tonelessly, laying her hand on mine.

Any sensible person would have said, "No," after just hearing Brenda's tacit confession of having wormed her way into Elmpoint, for heaven knew what crazy reason. But, being the dope I am, I patted her hand and said: "It's all right, Brenda. So long as you're sure you have nothing to do with Margot Ingalls' death, go ahead and move in."

I only realized what I had done when, on my way to the office from the Vandermer, I found myself making excuses for my own folly, such as: Brenda's purpose for her invasion of Elmpoint couldn't have been very terrible and I liked her anyway, mystery or no, and was sorry for her besides. She seemed so alone and helpless, in spite of her gorgeous clothes and jewels.

And then the thought of the jewels did the trick. I suddenly became conscious of the fact that Brenda had worn her lovely rose pin at lunch, but that the hand she had laid on mine had been bare: the huge diamond which had flashed on it in Elmpoint had been missing. Somehow it bothered me, no matter how firmly I told myself she'd probably just not felt like wearing it today, and I decided I couldn't go on keeping my hunches and doubts about her from the police.

I still hadn't any wish to tell Inspector Barry my story, mainly for fear he'd laugh at me for my pains. But—Hunt Berwick was taking me to dinner tonight. Hunt Berwick had seen through her deception from the first. He was the logical person with whom to discuss the riddle of Brenda Knight.

Hunt was already waiting for me when Claire and I came home after office hours.

"I got back sooner than I'd thought, so here I am, sitting on your doorstep," he greeted me. "By the way, Kennard was here when I arrived. But when he saw me he beat it as though all hell were after him."

"Why wouldn't he? Nobody loves a policeman," Claire told him dryly.

"Well, well! And practically the whole force is married. What a lot of mercenary hussies there must be in New York!" Hunt teased her good naturedly.

"That's right," she assured him with a grin. "Behold one of them in me! I'm going to do up right now, and smare a rich man into feeding me steak. And when I've reached the bursting point I'll reward him by sharing his expensive box in the newest bit show with him. So long, you two. Try and talk of something besides murder."

"Sound advice," Hunt approved when Claire had disappeared into her room. "But—can we do it?" I didn't think so, and shook my head. And he agreed: "Okay, we can't. So let's get it out of our systems before we go to dinner. Shall I start?"

His visit to Kentucky, it seemed, had been a complete washout. Margot's last husband definitely was not guilty of her murder or complicity in it, and hadn't the faintest idea for whom she had divorced him.

"He's nobody home. With the face of Apollo and the brains of a goat. If he committed a murder it would be in his sleep, and he'd stay on the spot, weapon in hand, and cry 'Mama!' Hunt reported, only half amused. "Besides, his brand new rich wife gives him an alibi."

"But he must have known with whom Margot was going around. It doesn't take much brains to hear the butler say, 'Mr. Whosis calling!'" I protested.

"It seems Mr. Whosis didn't call," Hunt told me ruefully. "Your late friend Margot was in the habit of taking frequent little trips, I discovered. In search of material for her novels, of course. And not as Mrs. Ingalls, but as Mrs. Whosis or Miss Whatevsname. That's when she must have been meeting the great unknown, and I'm sorry to say, her secrecy brings the investigation up against a stone wall. Now, what's new here?"

"Why ask me? You've seen Inspector Barry since your return, haven't you?" I countered.

Hunt grinned. "Correct. I've seen my temporary boss. And I had no intention of bothering you with the—er—voluntary return of your sister's faithful train-bearers. I meant, what's new with you?"

"Plenty," I assured him, with a sense of relief. "The relief. And then I'd been right in and told him not only what had happened, but my thoughts about it as well, starting with Polly and progressing to Brenda and my vague hunch of some hidden connection between her appearance in Elmpoint and Margot's murder. My account of Polly Woodford's parting rudeness to me made Hunt's teeth flash a quick smile.

"Funny little guy," he commented. "Trouble with him is, he'd like to have something to say and hasn't."

"I'm sure he has," I contradicted him. "He was on the point of mentioning a name Friday night. Yours, perhaps. He said this morning you looked most like the man in the elevator. But I don't really think he meant it. I think he spoke of you because you weren't there, and he wished you were and wanted to tell you something."

Hunt shook his head skeptically. "Sounds pretty far-fetched. No, I guess he did imagine it was I. Simply because I was the first man with a gray hat of the right height he saw after the other. But if it'll make you feel better I'll try and have a talk with him before he leaves tomorrow afternoon. Not as the police but, to use his language, 'As one gentleman to another.' He'll probably call me names, but it's worth trying."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

GREAT POST-WAR BOOM

"QUICK! PICK up the cards!" And on every reported occasion, when a game was broken up by enemy attack, one of the players rescued the precious pasteboards.

Often they were replaceable, and often that deck of cards was the only game equipment our men had. It was so in every theater of action in which American forces fought. For nothing else was small enough and light enough to be carried on the person of a heavily burdened fighter.

That is the principal reason why more hours were spent at card playing than any other recreation in those monotonous stretches of time between strenuous activities. It is also the main reason why more card players are developed in wartime than in peace.

Every war has been followed by a great war boom in card games, when a multitude of new players has returned from the fight. After the Spanish-American war, the boom was in bridge whist. Following World War I, it was in auction bridge. This time it is, of course, mainly in contract bridge, though it shows also in the amount of poker and gin-rummy being played, plus a certain amount of pinochle, cribbage and other card pastimes.

Those who picked up bridge from their wartime companions are mainly in contract bridge, though it shows also in the amount of poker and gin-rummy being played, plus a certain amount of pinochle, cribbage and other card pastimes.

Bexley Girl Is Bride Of Kenneth E. Reed

Couple Is Married At Open Church Ceremony

At an open church wedding in Christ Lutheran Church, Bexley, Miss Glenna Vivian Barnett, daughter of Mrs. Glenroy Barnett, Bexley, became the bride of Kenneth Eugene Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Reed, Ashville, on March 22. Dr. Otto Ebert, pastor of the church officiated at the evening ceremony.

The altar was decorated with palms and pink gladioli and seven branch candelabra. Miss Barnett, given in marriage by her brother, Glenroy W. Barnett, was preceded to the altar by her sister, Miss Betty Barnett, as maid of honor. Miss Jeanne Ebert was bridesmaid and Mrs. James R. Kirkpatrick was bridesmatron. All three attendants were dressed in identical gowns of pink brocade fashioned very simply with high round necklines, cap sleeves and extremely full skirts. They wore long light blue gloves and carried white prayer books with ribbon showers which were gifts of the bride.

The bride wore a veil of Brussels and rose point lace brought from Belgium by Mrs. John F. Landrum. Soft folds of lace fell from a Juliet cap and cascaded over her wedding gown of ivory faille taffeta with its long circular train effect in a deep flounce of taffeta. A Juliet lace collar created a square neckline and matching lace flounces were gathered to the wrists of the long bishop sleeves. Her only jewelry was a diamond lavallier which was given to her by her late father, Glenroy Barnett. She carried a white prayer book topped with shattered carnations and with ribbon showers.

Best man for Mr. Reed was Charles McCray and ushers were Philip Lanman and Ralph McCain. Mrs. Barnett, mother of the bride, wore a two piece aqua crepe dress with a flower hat and black accessories. The groom's mother wore a light gray dress with black accessories. Both mothers wore gardenia corsages.

A reception for 125 guests immediately followed the ceremony in the church parlor. Assisting hostesses were Miss Dorothy Mount and Mrs. Russel A. Weaver. When the young couple left for their wedding trip, the new Mrs. Reed wore a gray checked suit, black hat and red accessories. Her top coat was light gray with a silver muskrat tuxedo trim.

The bride is a graduate of Bexley high school and attended Capital University Business School. At the present time she is employed at the Farm Bureau in Columbus.

Mr. Reed was graduated from Walnut township high school and returned recently from three years overseas duty in Europe with the Army Air Corps. He is employed at the Barney-Cheney Engineering Company in Columbus.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Reed are at home at 257 Southwest Avenue, Columbus.

Mrs. Chester Valentine, Salt-creek township, entertained the members of the Art Sewing club with a luncheon at her home Wednesday. The table was decorated with lilies and tulips. The eight members present spent a social afternoon sewing.

MRS. HAYS AND MRS. ORR WILL HEAD GROUP B

A program committee consisting of Mrs. Ray Davis, Mrs. Channing Vierebome, and Miss Abbe Clarke was appointed. Mrs. Mack, Mrs. Ben Nothstine and Mrs. James Adams, will serve as the food committee. Telephone and publicity will be handled by Mrs. Fred Colville, and Mrs. W. A. Thomas. Mrs. J. B. Stevenson and Mrs. Walter Downing will be in charge of tax stamps.

It was decided at this meeting to schedule the group meetings alternately in afternoons and evenings, on the third Wednesday of each month.

Following the business session Mrs. Mack read an Easter message and Mrs. Orr led the devotionals.

Bexley Girl Is Bride Of Kenneth E. Reed

Couple Is Married At Open Church Ceremony

At an open church wedding in Christ Lutheran Church, Bexley, Miss Glenna Vivian Barnett, daughter of Mrs. Glenroy Barnett, Bexley, became the bride of Kenneth Eugene Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Reed, Ashville, on March 22. Dr. Otto Ebert, pastor of the church officiated at the evening ceremony.

The altar was decorated with palms and pink gladioli and seven branch candelabra. Miss Barnett, given in marriage by her brother, Glenroy W. Barnett, was preceded to the altar by her sister, Miss Betty Barnett, as maid of honor. Miss Jeanne Ebert was bridesmaid and Mrs. James R. Kirkpatrick was bridesmatron. All three attendants were dressed in identical gowns of pink brocade fashioned very simply with high round necklines, cap sleeves and extremely full skirts. They wore long light blue gloves and carried white prayer books with ribbon showers which were gifts of the bride.

The bride wore a veil of Brussels and rose point lace brought from Belgium by Mrs. John F. Landrum. Soft folds of lace fell from a Juliet cap and cascaded over her wedding gown of ivory faille taffeta with its long circular train effect in a deep flounce of taffeta. A Juliet lace collar created a square neckline and matching lace flounces were gathered to the wrists of the long bishop sleeves. Her only jewelry was a diamond lavallier which was given to her by her late father, Glenroy Barnett. She carried a white prayer book topped with shattered carnations and with ribbon showers.

Best man for Mr. Reed was Charles McCray and ushers were Philip Lanman and Ralph McCain. Mrs. Barnett, mother of the bride, wore a two piece aqua crepe dress with a flower hat and black accessories. The groom's mother wore a light gray dress with black accessories. Both mothers wore gardenia corsages.

A reception for 125 guests immediately followed the ceremony in the church parlor. Assisting hostesses were Miss Dorothy Mount and Mrs. Russell A. Weaver. When the young couple left for their wedding trip, the new Mrs. Reed wore a gray checked suit, black hat and red accessories. Her top coat was light gray with a silver muskrat tuxedo trim.

The bride is a graduate of Bexley high school and attended Capital University Business School. At the present time she is employed at the Farm Bureau in Columbus. Mr. Reed was graduated from Walnut township high school and returned recently from three years overseas duty in Europe with the Army Air Corps. He is employed at the Barney-Cheney Engineering Company in Columbus.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Reed are at home at 257 Southwood Avenue, Columbus.

Mrs. Chester Valentine, Salt-creek township, entertained the members of the Art Sewing club with a luncheon at her home Wednesday. The table was decorated with lilies and tulips. The eight members present spent a social afternoon sewing.

Patrolman J. G. Edie Addresses Grange On Safety Program

J. G. Edie, Lancaster Post of the State Highway Patrol was guest speaker at the Saltcreek valley grange meeting held at the school Tuesday evening. Patrolman Edie showed slides of accidents investigated by the patrol and told the grangers of the work and training of the patrolmen. His address was in keeping with the observance of National Safety week.

Judson Beougher and Miss Ruth Morris read papers on safety. Billy Rihl played a piano solo, "Some Sunday Morning." An Easter reading "Robbie Rabbit's Easter" was given by Larry Beougher. "Safe or Sorry," a playlette, was presented by Alma Miller and Neal and Robert Wolfe with Russell Anderson as narrator. At the close of the meeting Eileen Wolfe offered a piano solo. The program was under the direction of Mrs. Randolph Wolfe, lecturer.

During the business session Judson Beougher, worthy master, was in charge. Plans were made for a box social and bulb auction for the next meeting, May 7. The refreshment committee for the second meeting in May will be Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shride, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Spung, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Bright, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Balthaser.

Miss Ruth Morris reported on the "Breakfast in Hollywood" held at the Scioto valley grange. Grangers extended their thanks to Robert DeLong and Mrs. Judson Beougher for their work in repainting the grange sign and repairing grange equipment.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 8 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up right, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

BOGGS URGES ALL TO SAVE PRECIOUS FOOD

Manager Of Food Program Asks Cooperation To Aid Sufferers

John G. Boggs, manager of the Pickaway county emergency food program, reports that the world food situation continues grave, and that there are predictions that the next three months will see more hungry people in the world than there have been during any equivalent period of history.

From Europe Mr. Hoover sends word that even though countries are rationing most foods and making strenuous efforts to meet their food needs, the supplies just won't go around. He adds, however, that intense human suffering and death can still be averted throughout most of the continent if present rations are maintained, and he calls upon Americans to save and ship all the food that they possibly can.

Europe, though, is not the only place in the world where conditions are appalling and the need is dire. Mr. Henderson, UNRRA deputy director general, includes India and China along with Greece and Italy as the four nations hardest hit by the food shortage. From widespread areas come reports of malnutrition—and the wretchedness and deformities and disease that it brings. Tuberculosis borders on epidemic proportions among the children of Europe. Of 70,000 tested in Poland 40 percent showed signs of lung disorders and in Greece its incidence has multiplied four and a half times. Maimed, crippled and diseased—many of them for life—it is these children with whom our children will live and do business when they have grown to adults.

Mr. Boggs asks that the people of Pickaway county think of these facts—remember the purpose, when they are asked to save, conserve, and cooperate in all the little efforts to bring some measure of relief to those who are suffering.

A little done by each of us will mean a lot.

CUBS CONTINUE TO HOLD JINX OVER RED NINE

Chicagoans Win Again With Late Rally; Tribe Beats Sox Behind Reynolds

NEW YORK, April 18 — A mental double play combination of psychology and superstition which the Chicago Cubs have used to establish an incredible mastery over the Cincinnati Reds was clicking perfectly again today.

The Cubs won the 1945 pennant because of a hex that gave them 21 victories in 22 games against the Reds. Now they are out to take advantage of the situation again. The National League champions won their second straight game from the Reds, 11 to 7 yesterday, but as on opening day they were a beaten ball club going into the ninth inning. Cincinnati had a 7 to 6 lead going into the ninth when Cub batters went to work and scored five runs. Phil Cavaretta turned the tide with a two-run homer and set the pace at bat for the day with three hits in four trips, batting in four runs.

On opening day, Pitcher Joe Beggs of the Reds had a one-hit shutout going into the ninth when Chicago broke loose and won, 4 to 3. Whether the Cubs can maintain the mastery is problematical, but the Reds now appear to be at a bad psychological disadvantage. The cards seem to be stacked against them.

The St. Louis Cards made up for a bad opening day start, scoring a 6 to 0 shutout over the visiting Pittsburgh Pirates behind seven-hit pitching of lefty Max Lanier. Two rookies, Bob Joyce of the Giants and Hank Behrman of the Dodgers made winning National League debuts in the other games. Joyce, 31-year-old "late bloomer" for the Giants struck out nine batters and gave up seven hits in beating the Philadelphia Phillies, 5 to 2 at New York. The Giants got only four hits, but nine walks by Frank Horst helped in the run-making. Behrman got over the first-inning shakes to pitch Brooklyn to a 4 to 2 victory over the Braves at Boston.

Happiest man in the American League was Bobo Newsom of the Athletics, who rewarded the faith of Manager Connie Mack by holding the Yankees to three hits in a 7 to 1 victory at Philadelphia. Newsom, biggest loser in the American League with 20 defeats last year, persuaded Mack to take another chance on him and came through by silencing the Yankee sluggers.

Cleveland got another fine pitching job to beat the White Sox again at Chicago, 7 to 1. Allie Reynolds gave up five hits and was supported ably at bat by Ken Keltner who hit two homers and a double to drive in five runs. An error gave Chicago its only run in the two game series, Bob Feller scoring an opening day shutout.

Boston's terrorizing hitters were out in force again at Washington, getting 15 blows off five Senator pitchers in a 13 to 6 triumph. Ted Williams got two doubles and a single. Johnny Pesky got three singles and Dom DiMaggio got a three run homer and single.

The St. Louis Browns made four runs in the last two innings to beat the Tigers at Detroit, 7 to 6. Walter Judnich's two run homer in the eighth put them back in the running. Lou Finney singled in the winning run in the ninth. The Tigers had gone ahead, 6 to 3, breaking a 3-all tie with five successive hits in the seventh.

BASEBALL GUILD SETUP REVEALED

BOSTON, April 18—The American Baseball Guild, an independent labor union, aimed today for recognition as a collective bargaining agent in negotiations with major league club owners to improve the lot of the nation's diamond stars.

Headed by scholarly Robert Murphy, a Harvard law graduate and former athlete himself, the union already has "substantial membership" in 10 major league clubs and is out to organize all professional players in the United States.

Although Murphy emphasized that the guild intended to work in "harmonious relationship" with club managements, he was bitter in his denunciation of the "despotic tactics" which he said had brought about baseball serfdom. "Organized baseball no longer can rule with the iron hand of an absolute dictator," Murphy said. "From now on it must deal with organized baseball players in the form of the baseball guild. "The guild's purpose is to right the injustices of professional baseball and to give a square deal to the players the men who make possible big dividends and high salaries for stockholders and club executives." In Washington, owner Clark Griffith of the Senators belittled the reported progress of the guild

BOSTON, April 18—The American Baseball Guild, an independent labor union, aimed today for recognition as a collective bargaining agent in negotiations with major league club owners to improve the lot of the nation's diamond stars.

Headed by scholarly Robert Murphy, a Harvard law graduate and former athlete himself, the union already has "substantial membership" in 10 major league clubs and is out to organize all professional players in the United States.

Although Murphy emphasized that the guild intended to work in "harmonious relationship" with club managements, he was bitter in his denunciation of the "despotic tactics" which he said had brought about baseball serfdom.

"Organized baseball no longer can rule with the iron hand of an absolute dictator," Murphy said. "From now on it must deal with organized baseball players in the form of the baseball guild.

"The guild's purpose is to right the injustices of professional baseball and to give a square deal to the players the men who make possible big dividends and high salaries for stockholders and club executives."

In Washington, owner Clark Griffith of the Senators belittled the reported progress of the guild

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

special broadcast of music appropriate to the Easter season, to be heard over Mutual, Sunday, (7 to 7:30 p. m., EST). The reading by Cardinal Spellman marks the first recital of this poem. In keeping with the spirit of Easter, the musical portion of the program will be devoted to a performance of excerpts from the great Rossini "Stabat Mater," with Sylvan Levin conducting the full orchestra and the following distinguished artists as soloists: Thelma Votipka, soprano; Winifred Heidt, contralto; Eugene Conley, tenor; and Hugh Thompson, baritone.

EASTER SERVICES

A special overseas broadcast of Easter services and Easter music, originating from the Agana Cathedral on the Island of Guam, and featuring the United States Naval Choir and a choir of Guamanians, will be heard over Mutual, Sunday, (1 to 1:15 p. m., EST). Bishop Apolinarius Baumgarten, formerly of St. Johns Parish in New York, will be heard in a brief address during the broadcast.

ACTRESS MEG HAUN AWAITS TELEVISION

TREASURE HOUR

The spirit of Easter sets the musical note for the "Treasure Hour of Song" over Mutual, Thursday, (9:30 to 10 p. m., EST), as Licia Albanese, Francesco Valentini and the orchestra, under Alfredo Antonini, each contribute a special Easter offering to the broadcast.

The Metropolitan soprano will be heard in the "Ave Maria" from Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana." This is the famous prayer which is sung by the heroine of the opera, Santuzza, on Easter Sunday at the steps of the village church she has been forbidden to enter. Baritone, Valentino chooses from another source to sing an Easter-tide benediction, "Bless This House," the familiar hymn by Brahe, Antonini conducts the seasonal perennial, "Easter Parade," to open the program.

SUSPENSE

A bus driver and three passengers, two male and one female, returning after a visit to an insane asylum, hear a radio announcement that an inmate has escaped, and begin asking themselves the question, "Which one of us is crazy?" in "The Return Trip," by Maurice Zimm, on "Suspense," radio's theatre of thrills, Thursday, at 8 p. m., Keenan Wynn, whose radio and screen roles range from menace to comedy, plays the starring role.

CARRINGTON PLAYHOUSE

The play writing talents of another youthful veteran have received recognition with announcement that the drama, "Ride a Cock Horse," written by 26-year-old Howard Rodman of New York City, will be presented by "The Carrington Playhouse" on the MBS broadcast, Thursday, (8 to 8:30 p. m., EST). "Ride a Cock Horse" is a serio-comic fantasy that tells of the bizarre friendship between a man and a philosophical horse—said horse having a penchant for scholarly conversation, fine tea and Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet." In the manner of Shaw's "Androcles and the Lion," Rodman's play is also a parable of human intolerance arising from fear in conjunction with ignorance and lack of understanding.

GOOD FRIDAY

The story of the Crucifixion, told in scripture and song, will be a feature of the Good Friday broadcast of the MBS, "Faith In Our Time," Friday, (10:15 to 10:30 a. m., EST). The narrative portion of the program will be interpreted by the Rev. Dr. Ralph S. Meadowcroft, Rector of All Angels' Church, New York City, and the vocal interpolations will be sung by a quartet under the musical direction of Harvey Harding. The choral selections include: "Tis Midnight on Olive's Brow," "What Will You Do With Jesus?", "Jesus the Crucified," "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross" and "The Crucifixion of Christ."

FRIDAY SERMON

Good Friday services from the famed St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Philadelphia, including a sermon by the Right Reverend Cedric

Blatz, will be heard over MBS on a special program Friday, (1:15 to 1:45 p. m., EST). Seasonal choral music will be offered by the renowned boys choir of this church, under the direction of Harold Gilbert.

EASTER STORY

An unusual Easter story—"The Autobiography of an Ancient Piece of Silver," will be heard on a special Good Friday dramatic presentation, Friday, (4:30 to 5 p. m., EST), from Mutual's studios in Baltimore, Md. The unusual dramatic fantasy, produced in cooperation with the 3rd Service Command, concerns one of the 30 pieces of silver which were given to Judas in payment for his betrayal of Jesus in the Garden of Gethsemane. The play, written by Bill Rock and Lou Corbin, will be produced by T/Sgt. Robert Shield. Special music has been written by Chief Warrant Officer Warren Schaeffer, who will conduct a 35 piece orchestra.

CARDINAL SPELLMAN

The appearance of His Eminence, Francis Cardinal Spellman, to read his newest poem, "Resurrection," will be the highlight of a
